NCOHR Interdisciplinary Research Student Workshop
June 16 & 17, 2016
Program

Date/ Time	Activity/ Presentation
Day 1 – June 16	Room 547 (James Lund Lecture Room) 2001 McGill College
08:30	Meet and Greet Breakfast / Drs. Richard Hovey, Mari Kaartinen and Christophe Bedos.
09:00	Introductions / All
09:30	Title: Reflections on the Reality of Health-related Research Funding in Canada in the 2nd and 3rd Decades of the 21st Century Content: This presentation will provide some historic context on health-related research funding in Canada, including some information on oral and dental health research, then describe in more detail the current funding environment and finally attempt to paint a picture of how things may evolve further over the next 10 years. The place of interdisciplinary research and how that has evolved will be included in this temporal picture of research in Canada. Dr. Paul Allison – Dean, Faculty of Dentistry, McGill University
10:15	Small group discussions followed by open discussion on the future of research in oral health. How does Interdisciplinary Research fit in? 30 minutes for groups to brain storm and generate 3 to 5 ideas about the future of oral heath in Canada.
10:45	Break
11:00	Title: Engendering Collaborative Praxis Content: In this workshop, we will articulate how a reflexive approach to collaborative research and practice ensures productive collaborative relations and ultimately meaningful collaborative outcomes. We will invite people to reflect on their own experiences of collaboration and the role that reflexivity played (or might have played) in ensuring that the collaborative enterprise was equitable and productive. Collectively, we will brainstorm practical strategies for building reflexivity and relationality into our research and practice, such that we maximize the outcomes of our collaborative work. We will end with a discussion of leadership approaches that support collaborative praxis. Dr. Naomi Nichols & Dr. Steven Jordan – Integrated Studies in Education, Faculty of Education, McGill University
11:45	Morning Session Check-in and reflections

Thoughts and photos can be shared on social media during the workshop
using hashtags #2016StudentWorkshop and #NCOHR.

12:00	Lunch
13:00	Title: The Same, But Different! Developing an Interdisciplinary PhD Program. Dr. Laura S. Stone – Associate Professor, Alan Edwards Centre for Research on Pain, Faculty of Dentistry, McGill University Dr. Jocelyne Feine – Professor with the Faculty of Dentistry, Division of Oral Health and Society, McGill University.
13:45	Title: Weighing the Risk! The Relational Aspects of Interdisciplinary Team Building. The Hermeneutic Wager. Imagination / Humility / Commitment / Discernment and Hospitality Dr. Richard Hovey – Associate Professor with the Faculty of Dentistry, Division of Oral Health and Society, McGill University.
14:30	Small groups discuss the implication of relationality for successful interdisciplinary research. Break-out rooms
15:15	Groups Present Research Ideas
16:00	Day Wrap up and Evaluation
18:30 to 21:30	Boat Tour and Dinner: Information (http://www.bateaumouche.ca/en/home.html)
Day 2 – June 17	Room 547 (James Lund Lecture Room) 2001 McGill College
08:30	Breakfast
09:15	Morning Check in
09:30	Title: Double Hermeneutics: Illustrating Why and How of Team Reflexivity Dr. Hiba Zafran – Occupational Therapist, Psychotherapist, School of Physical and Occupational Therapy, McGill University.
10:15	Small Group Discussion
11:00	Break
11:15	Title: Leadership for Effective / Affective Interdisciplinarity Dr. Richard Hovey – Faculty of Dentistry, McGill University
12:00	Lunch
13:00	Title: A Multi-sector Approach to Sexual Violence in Universities Dr. Shaheen Shariff – Integrated Studies in Education, Faculty of Education, McGill University
13:45	Small Group-Work and Discussion
15:00	Wrap up and Evaluation

Thoughts and photos can be shared on social media during the workshop
using hashtags #2016StudentWorkshop and #NCOHR.